People power saves Barn on Flaxton

“AMAZING community support” has helped save a much-loved Flaxton business from closure after lease negotiations broke down and then rose from the ashes last week.

On Sunday (June 5) The Barn on Flaxton was days from closure as their lease was due to expire. Then came an outpouring of community support online.

By Wednesday afternoon tears turned to cheers in a remarkable turnaround that saw the lease renegotiated.

“The community concern and amazing support has saved us,” said Ange Bowen who co-owns the business with husband Jason and Danielle Birks. “We had so many well wishes and prayers. This was an absolute saviour to our business. We always knew we had a really great community up here, but this was overwhelming. Customers were crying and many came to help us pack when all looked lost.”

“It’s been surprising in that the quietest little customers have come in and supported us and been quite vocal,” said Danielle. “We do a lot of charity work and community work which means the Barn has become a community hub and I think that support has been returned to us in a very real way. It wasn’t just empty offers it was practical, immediate hands-on help.”

Jason said the team strived to give the Barn a warm, homely atmosphere. “And we hope the

Suncoast Christian College reveals details of innovative campus

SUNCOAST Christian College has unveiled plans for its innovative new primary school campus.

Designed by m3 Architecture, the campus features the most advanced school buildings on the Sunshine Coast. It has been designed specifically for a collaborative ‘team-teaching’ model that replaces traditional classrooms with flexible learning spaces.

The building will accommodate years 1 through 6, with the students split into three cohorts, each taught by a team of six teachers and teachers’ assistants in spaces with dedicated and adaptable learning zones over two levels.

A tiered seating area in each of these cohort zones will connect the two levels, allowing students to move between floors. Each cohort will have its own maker space and kitchen. An art room and performing arts space will service the whole primary school.

The new building will be wrapped in a

Rugby league player Nancy Sullivan is looking forward to playing at Suncorp Stadium but... "I'll be very nervous because it's a much bigger crowd than I'm used to".

Schoolgirl to represent State at Suncorp

RUGBY league player Nancy Sullivan admits she'll be very nervous running onto Suncorp Stadium for Queensland Schoolgirls against New South Wales in a curtain raiser to the third State of Origin on July 13.

After all the Murri and Islander Leader at Nambour State College will be playing for a spot in the Australian School Girls side.

But the 16-year-old lock/second rower who is vice-captain of Palmwoods Devils Under 17 girls team and plays in Nambour Crushers

Open Women's team will be buoyed by the thought of wearing maroon for her family, her clubs and for her home town of Cherbourg where she lived until recently.

"I am passionate about football and so happy to be selected in the team. I'll be very nervous because it's a much bigger crowd than I'm used to but I'm proud to have come this far and I think it will be okay," she said at Nambour Crushers training on Tuesday night (June 7).

"When I make a rep side it means a lot to me because it shows my siblings a pathway they can follow to fulfil their dreams and it shows my community what's possible," the oldest of seven said.

Nancy now lives in Woombye with her mum and dad and siblings and her life revolves around a blossoming rugby league career. "I like to help out around the club," she said. "I do a bit of coaching and give advice to the young players about tackling and passing and I take some drills."

Nancy was looking forward to mixing in the rarified atmosphere

Suncorp which will be the first-ever Schoolgirls clash against New South Wales.

"We get to pick out who we want to hand the jersey to us. I'm hoping to get indigenous player Tamika Upton from the Broncos," she said.

► Nancy is trying to raise funds to help pay for her accommodation, transport and football gear. If you wish to help her fulfil her dreams please contact her parents Kenny Sullivan (0423 930 073) or Loretta Chambers (0492 453 638) for more information.

customers feel that," said Jason. "We like to think it's more than a cup of coffee here. We've made true friends in this business. They're not just customers, they become part of a family. We don't want people to feel like they're just a number.

"The locals are our bread and butter. The main message we want to get across is to thank the community. Their voices were heard, loud and clear, and we are very grateful."

"We did the post on Sunday night and then cried," said Ange.

"And then everything turned around thanks to our customers."

"It's hard to even explain how grateful we are," said Danielle.

The Barn was much more than a coffee shop venue, according to Kevin McAney, a Flaxton resident and a volunteer for Restoring Hope Parkinson's Therapy and Nambour and District Parkinson's Support Group.

"It has definitely become somewhat of a 'Community Hub' and a place that the locals enjoy going to and feel welcomed every time. Ange, Jason and Danielle, together with the staff, have given so much back to the local community and dedicated their lives to the business.

"They have been a huge support to Restoring Hope and the local Parkinson's community. It would have been a tragedy if they could not continue. I am so glad that the community decided that they would take action. We could not lose the 'Barn-acles'."

Staff celebrated with a special dinner Sunday night. It turned into a triple-celebration as it was Jason's 50th birthday on Monday June 6 and the business's three-year anniversary on June 10.

Medieval, Crusaders, Mercenaries and Artisans (MCMA) is a collection of like-minded individuals who come together to replicate Medieval life.

Medieval re-enactment group brings middle ages to life

A medieval re-enactment group says a growing number of people are choosing to ditch the chaos of modern life and return to a simpler time.

Medieval, Crusaders, Mercenaries and Artisans (MCMA) is a collection of like-minded individuals who come together to replicate as closely as possible what life would have been like during a Medieval time.

The group has been meeting for around two years and currently trains fortnightly at Cilento Park Nambour learning everything from the art of war to the arts and crafts of the time.

"We have members in our group who have been in the scene for 20 years right up to others that have joined just this year," said President Michael Geppert.

"We accept people with all levels of interest — from people who want to just dress in period clothing and hang out at the 'Village' and learn medieval craft activities, right up to tournament level competition fighters. We have recently made an alliance with the Sunshine Coast Vultures. This group fight in a Buhurt competition league which is a world-wide sport. Think judo, but with armour and swords."

MCMA recently received funding for promotion and equipment from the Sunshine Coast Council. "This funding has also allowed us to hire a hall within Nambour's PCYC so we can train weekly no matter the weather. We will be training together at the PCYC on Saturdays from July 16."

MCMA attends different events throughout the year, most of which are during the cooler months. "Some are private events with other re-enactors, but we also are working towards attending the Abbey Medieval Festival at Caboolture which is on July 9 and 10," said Michael.

Members have many different reasons for joining the group.

"All have at least a general interest in the Medieval period but there are many facets to this. Some like history, some like the fashion, some like the crafts like weaving, textile making and metal and timber work while others enjoy the fighting and fitness," said Treasurer Kris Johannessen.

"Members say it gives them a chance to experience something they would not get a chance to do in their everyday lives," said Kris. "Some enjoy the personal growth they achieve from practicing their skills."

"Our members are all very supportive and love to share their knowledge with new members when they join and the public while at events."

► If you are interested in the medieval period, the Club will welcome you with open arms at the Nambour PCYC every Saturday from July 16. For info email Michael Geppert at mcma.inc@yahoo.com.

specially designed steel mesh, allowing air and natural light to stream through.

It will provide flexible and collaborative learning spaces where a team of dedicated Christian teachers will provide inquiry-based teaching to equip students for a future world where creativity, communication and critical thinking skills are essential.

The open teaching spaces will be zoned and furnished to allow for a variety of teaching modes, with different configurations for different stages of learning and subjects. Teachers will be able to effectively and intuitively tailor lessons to the abilities and learning needs of individual students.

The school's principal, Greg Mattiske, said team-teaching delivers the best social, emotional and academic outcomes for students. "Today's students have diverse needs," he said. "It's too much for one teacher to have the burden of trying to meet all these needs on their own. Better outcomes for students can be achieved when we work as a team."

The staff have been involved in the design process and it's been very much designed around the school's vision for learning. "This project has gone way beyond our expectations," said Mr Mattiske. "I want children, staff and parents to come to the school and feel excited about this facility."

Founded on reclaimed farming land in Woombye in 1979 as the Suncoast Christian Academy, the school's first building was an old pineapple packing shed. From such humble origins, down through generations bound by the mission of seeing students grow in their faith, character, and learning, the new campus will be a fitting affirmation of the school's legacy and special character.

"Such forethought about the campus, as a space designed to facilitate the highest educational outcomes, reinforces how Christian education should go hand in hand with academic excellence," said Mr Mattiske. "Students will have both a Christ-centred and world-class education."

The school teaches more by stage than age, with learning based on a child's level in each subject. The building has been designed to accommodate teams of teachers and teacher assistants working together with students in large, medium and small group configurations. The flexible nature of the facility means that spaces can accommodate groups of five pupils up to 100.

The new campus is phase one of a 25-year master building plan. It envisages and allows for future capacity as the school looks to add an additional 100 students. There are currently two classrooms for each grade, and the aspiration is to increase that to three without changing the integrity and community focus of the school.

Funding for the project will be provided through the College's governing body, the International Network of Churches, bolstered by a modest contribution from the State government, ensuring the onus will not be on parents to shoulder any undue burden.

Little Austins rolling in to Nambour and hinterland

THE Austin Seven Register of Queensland is holding a small informal gathering in Nambour from Wednesday June 22 to Monday June 27.

People will be able to see the cars out and about as they are doing runs up to Maleny, Yandina, Kenilworth and Palmwoods.

The Austin Seven Register was founded in 1967 in Brisbane to cater for Austin 7 enthusiasts, and has held motoring events from the Tweed up to Bundaberg and out to Longreach!

The cars are usually driven rather than trailed and have attended events, organised by other clubs within Queensland and other States.

This little car proved to outlast all its contemporaries, being in production for over 25 years, and being so adaptable to design changes.

Long after the last car rolled off the production line, it continues to be the basis of a variety of motoring interest groups. For info contact Tim Braby 0405 740 418.

Burger business bounces back with bold ambitions

DOWNTOWN Burgers is back at a new address, nearly four months after extensive rain damage caused it to close its doors.

"I had some big decisions to make," said owner Cam Scott. "Do we hold on and wait for some repairs to the old building or do we kick on in new premises."

Cam decided to move just up the road to 113 Currie Street, a building he holds dear to his heart. At the same time he plans to re-ignite familiar memories of the site's entertaining past.

It's where he ran the popular bar and eatery, Nook and Cranny, from 2015-17. It was the first live music venue in Nambour, serving pizza in a chilled-out atmosphere.

"No other place in town quite suited what we wanted to do and we've always loved this space," said Cam.

"We have plans to return the vibe back to its Nook and Cranny days with a bar, live music, comedy nights and more. We'll be operating late Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. It would be a dishonour to anyone that had been to Nook and Cranny if we disregarded its past."

As if rebuilding the business wasn't enough, Cam also wants to expand the venue to include a rooftop beer garden function space within a year or two.

"At the end of the day we feel we have taken what was a negative and turned it into a really big positive," he said.

"We're super excited and can't wait. We're proud of our burger restaurant but we wanted to make sure we were pushing forward. DownTown grew from nothing into something. We didn't want to leave what we had so we're combining what worked in the past, the nostalgia behind the old building, with what's working now."

Unfortunately, Cam was forced to close his fledgling gym Fit Yeah in order to accommodate the plans.

"It was a tough decision but one we had to make. I'm sure it was the right decision as we have big plans for this space.

"Besides we'd always wanted to change the design and look of DownTown Burgers and now we can do so."

Once the decision was made the kitchen was operational in three days. It has been up and running for two weeks, for takeaways and deliveries only. "The response has been amazing and we can't thank our customers enough. We can't believe the feedback and the support we have had. Nambour has helped us get through a really scary and unfortunate situation".

What won't change are DownTown's renowned burgers. "We're famous for our soft pretzel buns," said Cam. "Nobody else does anything like them. Competitors have tried to copy them but they never get it right. Ours are like a cross between an Amish pretzel and a New York bagel. They have the density to hold the ingredients of a big burger — still soft on the inside, with a golden crust— and we actually boil our buns, which gives it the unique pretzel flavour. We love these buns and we make them fresh every day. We are really excited to incorporate into our new kitchen a viewing platform, so people can see first hand what we love so much and what makes our burgers so unique."

Cam Scott has bold plans to build on the success of DownTown Burgers by introducing the spirit of his former bar Nook and Cranny into the new premises.

Cam said there was plenty of activity bubbling under the surface in Nambour and looked forward to a bright future.

"From where Nambour was five or six years ago the amount of offices that have moved in to town has been great. Retail spaces are being taken up by offices with more employees. They're replacing a few staff with dozens and that means more people in town."

► DownTown Burgers is open 7 days (currently only for takeaways) from 5pm-8pm. downtownnambour.com. Phone: 5441 1587.

How a local club is helping women in Uganda feed their children

THE soil in northern Uganda is some of the most fertile in the world. But many people simply lack access to resources to grow their harvest.

Women in Uganda are the caretakers of their family and when you invest in a woman, you invest in her household and her community.

That's the reasoning behind Zonta Club of Blackall Range's latest initiative.

They are throwing their weight behind Love Mercy Australia's Cents for Seeds campaign.

"This exciting project, a new one for our Club, will greatly assist women who are trying to make a better future for themselves and their families in difficult circumstances," said Zonta's June Robson.

"Everyone is invited to a morning tea to find out how we are supporting the Cents for Seeds project and also what else we do for the community, and you might meet some new friends."

Under the project, a $30 gift provides a 30kg loan of seeds to a woman & her household in northern Uganda.

She is trained in farming and best agricultural practices and given a tool (a hoe) to use.

From an initial $30 investment, she may see between 150-300kgs of harvest, offering income and food for the year ahead.

Through this project, she is taught how to maximise her income through income generating activities, how to save, what interest is and how to access welfare.

"The 30kg seed loan offers women the opportunity to earn an income, which can be turned into food, income, education & health-care," said June.

► The Zonta Club of Blackall Range Morning Tea will be held at the Mapleton Bowls Club on Friday June 24 from 10am. Tickets are $20 and you can purchase on the day. Zonta is an international women's organisation supporting local and international projects. For info contact nellierobson@hotmail.com.

Nambour Garden Club launches Ukraine Appeal

NAMBOUR Garden Club has raised money and paid tribute to the people of Ukraine in a colourful show of support at the latest meeting.

Members were invited to bring blue and yellow flowers from their gardens and many decided to dress in blue and yellow as part of a Ukraine Crisis Appeal at the June 6 meeting.

Member Jan Bell came up with the idea to help refugees "as a symbol of our affection and respect for the Ukrainian people as well as our most fervent wish that their nation will once again know peace".

"We could all see what was happening to the poor people of Ukraine on the news and we're all wondering 'what can we do?'" said President Glenda Thorne. "This gives members the opportunity to do something positive and to donate some money for Red Cross that will certainly go to a good cause."

Representatives from Nambour Red Cross came to the meeting to collect the donations.

"Money raised will be donated to the Red Cross Ukraine Crisis Appeal," said Glenda.

"Under this appeal the International Committee of Red Cross (ICRC) is facilitating the safe transport of more than 1000 civilians from Mariupol to Zaporizhzhia."

"This convoy's arrival to Zaporizhzhia is a huge relief for hundreds of people who have suffered immensely and are now in a safer location," said Pascal Hundt, the ICRC's head of delegation in Ukraine.

"It's clear, though, that thousands more civilians trapped inside Mariupol need safe passage out and aid to come in. As a neutral intermediary, we're ready to respond to this humanitarian imperative once concrete agreements and security conditions allow it."

► Nambour Garden Club meets on the first Monday of each month (February to November) at Uniting Church Hall, Coronation Street, Nambour (9am for 10am start). The Club is affiliated with Garden Clubs of Australia whose motto, "Friendship through Gardening", they share. For information see Facebook or email nambourgardenclub@gmail.com.

BushCare Bees bounce back after bad weather

ABOUT 25 workers gathered to plant 700 seedlings along Petrie Creek near Quota Park on Saturday in a World Environment Day Festival activity.

It involved Sunshine Coast Council, Ecollaboration and of course Petrie Creek Catchment Care Group volunteers.

The wet weather has affected BushCare Action Bees recently, but by swapping some days organisers have been able to do some important habitat building bush care.

Next opportunities to join us in these BushCare events on Petrie Ck will be at:

- Namba Creek on Saturday 18 June starting at 8am. (meet in The Model Railway Park off Florence St Nambour)

- Gulong Gung on Wednesday 22 June starting at 8am. (meet in the NE corner of the carpark at Aldi off Howard St Nambour).

To join in the activities at these events you'll need to come in "long everything" bush protective clothing including boots/shoes and a hat. All tools required will be provided.

Clouds offers choice of options for locals too

Business Writeup: Clouds Retreats

SYDNEY has its Blue Mountains, and Melbourne, The Dandenong and Macedon Ranges. But the jewel in the crown of South East Queensland must surely be the Sunshine Coast Hinterland. Of course, this is no secret to locals!

In 2018-19, the Clouds Retreats Group purchased what was then Clouds of Montville – now Clouds Montville, and subsequently The Big Barrel – now The Barrel @ Clouds Vineyard, Tanglewood Gardens – now Clouds Mapleton, and The African Village at Balmoral Ridge.

“Over the next year, substantial renovation and upgrade work was undertaken at all sites to bring them to the standard they are today and now offers something for everyone with a range from intimate and boutique to family friendly,” said Manager, Kaye Smyth. “Each venue has been carefully and painstakingly refurbished.

“All Clouds properties are positioned across the Range to offer easy access to both the Hinterland and the Coast.

“Our dining venues have been planned to provide easy access and parking, a warm, welcoming atmosphere, friendly service and superb regionally sourced food and drinks. We are so excited for locals and visitors to come and enjoy the Clouds experience.”

The Bergin Lounge takes its name from an early settler to the surrounding area, John Delaney Bergin, whose property included Obi Obi Station (or Uby Uby, as it was known then) which comprised 32 square miles and was purchased in 1859.

The property was eventually sold to his wife Jane’s brother Isaac Moore who went on to build Kenilworth Station.

The Bergin’s moved to Brisbane where they continued to make their mark on the growing city.

Clouds are now delighted to be able to offer the additional experience of a new look wine bar with Tapas style menu from 12 until 4.30 on Friday to Sundays and Public Holidays in the Bergin Lounge at Clouds Montville.

Manager Kaye Smyth soaks up the ambience of the Bergin lounge. It is not just guests who can enjoy Clouds facilities. They are available to everyone.

The ambience of the Bergin Lounge as well as the coastal vistas invite guests to relax in the warmth of the fireplace and elegance of its surrounds and enjoy a leisurely glass of wine and selection from the crafted menu.

“Today, shared plate selections have become very appealing as people are preferring to sample different options as offered by the tapas style menu,” Kaye said.

“The past couple of years have been both exciting and trying,” she said. “But we have a great passion for this beautiful part of the world and are very optimistic about the future”.

► Clouds Montville, Bergin Lounge is at 166 Montville Road, Montville. Phone 5442 9174.

Deb Rowlands’ customers love the convenience of dropping off and collecting their alteration items whenever it suits. Demand has been such that it has required four lockers near her front door.

Sewing model born out of Covid goes from surviving to thriving

Business Writeup: Drop-Sew-Go

AS businesses return from the devastating effects of the coronavirus, Deb Rowlands, owner of iSew4U Alterations & Dressmaking is thankful to share her journey from surviving to thriving.

In April 2020, Deb adjusted her business by offering customers a contactless Drop-Sew-Go service model born out of necessity for business survival. Initially, a single drop box was made available to customers for services that did not require fittings. The service has proved to be very well-received by customers.

“I had always hoped that I could come back stronger but with Covid there were no guarantees,” said Deb.

“They love the ease and convenience of dropping off and collecting their items whenever it suits. It has become so popular that I had to expand, and I wanted to make it more secure for customers.”

The new Drop-Sew-Go is a four-door secure locker system.

“Each of the boxes are a substantial size to fit lots of items such as a dozen curtains for hemming,” said Deb. “Customers can drop off any time into any unlocked door.”

► When the alteration/repair service is complete Deb emails the invoice for payment and supplies a unique code for customers to access their items from the secure locker. For more information visit iSew4U.org/post/drop-sew-go or phone 0414 388 238.

‘Bronny the Dinosaur’ launch at The Little Book Nook in Palmwoods

A lovely time was had by all those attending the launch last month of local author, Jenny Fitzmaurice’s picture book, Bronny the Dinosaur ... where’s my Mummy?

It was a relief to see the sun out as it had previously been postponed because of rain.

The children were able to hear the delightful story about a baby dinosaur who gets lost and must retrace his footsteps to find his way back to his Mum.

The bright illustrations by Kimberley Coffey had them enchanted. There was also a collage of the dinosaur for the children to do in the lovely setting of the courtyard outside The Little Book Nook up the Lane next to Home Grown Café.

The book is still available at the Bookshop for $16.99, along with lots of other books, games and lovely cards for all ages which can also be purchased and viewed online.

There are often events for the children and adults held in the charming space nestled in Little Main Street, Palmwoods.

Water slide makes a splash at Nambour pool

NAMBOUR Aquatic Centre is one step closer to becoming one of the region's most exciting community splash parks with the installation of two giant new water slides.

The finishing touches are now underway on the Nambour Aquatic Splash Park, which is expected to open in the coming months, weather permitting, followed by an official opening celebration in the warmer September school holiday period.

The colourful new slides measuring 60 and 67 metres will join the zero-depth and fully accessible splash pad which is already open.

Sunshine Coast Council Division 10 Councillor David Law said he was thrilled to see the Nambour Aquatic Splash Park transform.

"The Splash Pad is very popular with families and we know the slides will be just as sensational when they open in the coming months," Cr Law said.

"The completed water-wonderland will be a major drawcard for the Nambour area."

Together with the Centre's existing 50 metre lap pool and 25 metre indoor pool, the new water play facilities will allow people of all ages to enjoy hours of healthy and active fun.

The $3.26 million investment includes the recent addition of 44 new car parking spaces, a zero-depth splash pad play area and two adventure slides.

The Nambour Aquatic Centre is one of nine council-owned aquatic centres across our region.

► For more information about the construction of Nambour Aquatic Centre's Splash Park, please visit council's website.

Classic Aussie movies showing in Maleny

THE Maleny Blackall Range Lions club is holding a movie afternoon at the Maleny Community Centre featuring two historic Australian classics.

They are the multi-award winning Australian docudrama movie, The Back of Beyond and The Last Mail from Birdsville (each about one hour in length). They'll be shown Sunday July 3 at 2.30pm at the Community Centre.

The Back of Beyond was released in early 1950 and was seen by thousands of Australians. When Queen Elizabeth II saw the movie, she awarded truck driver Tom Kruse an MBE. John Heyer's 1950's Aussie adventure film following Tom Kruse along the Birdsville Track was the winner of the Absolute Grand Prize at the 1954 Venice International Film Festival and nominated for a 1955 BAFTA film award for Best Documentary Film.

The second docudrama, Last Mail from Birdsville: The Story of Tom Kruse, is from 2000 when Tom Kruse drove the last mail from Birdsville in his original restored truck followed by 400 people from Birdsville to Adelaide. He carried over 7000 letters.

Lions Club member Ralph Ding has a family connection with the mailman driver Tom Kruse.

Groups urged to apply for Sundale Community grants

NAMBOUR and local community groups in need of cash grants are encouraged to visit the Sundale Community Foundation (SCF) website to apply for the 2022 Sundale Community Foundation grants round.

SCF was established in 2015 by Sundale Ltd with the aim of extending the charitable influence of Sundale through financial grants for worthy projects in Nambour and surrounding areas. $1 million was gifted by Sundale Ltd to kick-start the Community Foundation; and thanks to the Sundale Community Foundation Board of volunteers that money has been carefully invested. Earnings from those funds are distributed to community grants each year.

"In October 2021 we celebrated 12 local community groups who received more than $57,000 in funds," said SCF Chair, Caroline Hutchinson. "The last two years have been challenging for our community, our Board of Volunteers has endured, and once again has money to distribute in 2022."

SCF is also putting the call out to local businesses or individuals wishing to make a donation. Community partners are invited to be part of our grants selection process, and know that their tax deductible monies will go to a Nambour organisation or charity in need.

The 2021 grants have benefited local organisations, with some wonderful support provided with grants between $1000- $10,000.

► Visit the Sundale Community Foundation website www.sundalecommunityfoundation.org.au for information on how to apply for grants, become a community partner or to make a donation.

Gatherer announces debut of German Bakehouse bread

Business Writeup: Gatherer, Nambour

BREAD lovers will be happy to know that German Bakehouse loaves are now available from Gatherer, on the corner of Howard and Currie Streets, Nambour.

"I just love German Bakehouse bread," said Gatherer owner Debra Lawson. "It is a staple of my diet. It is baked with traditional recipes that have been used for over 50 years. The range and quality are outstanding, and the bread is wonderful value. It's real food."

Debra will be stocking loaves of their classic rye/wheat and white sourdough on the shelf, plus Danishes.

"Otherwise, people can order online from the bigger range, and it will be available for pick up from Gatherer on Wednesdays. This will guarantee they get what they want every time," she explained.

"The German Bakehouse will also be supplying me with salad bowls and Mediterranean grilled veggies for takeaway lunches," said Debra. "I am excited to be serving delicious Eumundi coffee and the Noosa Power Ballz range of healthy slices. It's nice to be able to offer food that is quick, healthy and delicious!"

"Right now I can only serve takeaways but I will be getting a little bar area built inside and applying for a dining licence once Council brings that in next month. So seating is coming soon."

Besides being a place to grab great coffee and now sourdough breads and pastries, Gatherer stocks affordable, beautiful designer boutique fashion, footwear, groceries, cold drinks, unique gifts, makeup, skincare, jewellery and much more.

"I love the fact that there are so many fabulous privately-owned businesses in Nambour, especially in and around the CBD," said Debra.

Deb Lawson now offers fresh German Bakehouse bread.

"And it is terrific to see locals rediscovering what is on offer. After a very trying couple of years, I know that small business owners like myself really appreciate the support of our local residents and we work hard to provide offerings that are quality and unique."

► Gatherer is at 1 Howard Street, Nambour (on the corner of Currie Street). Phone 0410 587 171. You can order German Bakehouse bread at gathereraustralia.com.au

Giant celebration in Palmwoods for Refugee Week

OVER 30 community groups gathered at Palmwoods to create a giant, colourful welcome message to show that the Sunshine Coast welcomes refugees.

The giant art and social media project on June 4 at Federation Park, Palmwoods was coordinated by the Sunshine Coast Refugee Action Network during Refugee Week.

"The great thing about this project is how many different groups jumped on board - from schools to climate action groups, artists to multicultural groups," said SCRAN member Lisa McDonald. "Everyone was very enthusiastic and took this opportunity to find out more about refugees."

Photos of the individual letters being created were posted on the SCRAN facebook page, along with messages from the various groups involved. On 20 June, World Refugee Day, drone footage of the complete message will be posted.

The giant message will go on display at the Sonder Gallery in Cooroy from 18 - 25 June, as part of a free exhibition of art by refugees, including those formerly detained on Nauru.

Refugee Week, 19 to 25 June, is Australia's peak annual activity to inform the public about refugees and celebrate the positive contributions made by refugees to Australian society.

► Information about the Art Exhibition can be found at www.sondergallery.com. More information about Refugee Week can be found at www.refugeeweek.org.au

Tis' the season ... for barefoot bowls!

CHRISTMAS lovers are invited to experience the magic of winter on the Range, coupled with some barefoot bowls, as Mapleton Bowls Club celebrates Christmas in July on Sunday July 3.

Guests will be encouraged to dress up in their best Christmas costume for Barefoot Bowls and a Christmas dinner at the popular club. The private event is being organised by wedding planner Kristy Aitken and celebrant Lisa Brereton, whose daughter and son (respectively) play bowls at Mapleton.

Christmas in July at the Bowls Club seemed like a great way of giving back to the community, said Kristy.

"We have a live musician (John Veloso) who plays at weddings and we're using a catering team that cater for weddings," she said. "So, we're using those we know and love to work with to bring a fun event together. We are playing bowls for two hours then heading inside for some prizes, drinks and a Christmas in July buffet dinner with dessert."

• It's on July 3 from 3pm. Dinner is 6pm. Cash bar available. To book your table or ticket click the link at www.trybooking.com/BYRHV or contact 0409 624 401 for more info.

Nick's album spent five weeks in a row on the national AMRAP charts.

After 18 years of leading The Molting Vultures, Nick is revelling in the 180 degree turn with his first full length solo album. "My music involves raw storytelling that engages the audience through the whole show, in the true tradition of the singer-songwriter," he said.

Graceville Art Festival brings exhibition to St Lukes Church

WORKSHOPS, market stalls and an art exhibition will feature at this year's Graceville Art Festival on June 18 and 19.

The annual event attracts a wide line up of local artists. It includes art displays, art workshops, market stalls, and fun.

Held at St Luke's Lutheran Church in Nambour, it is a celebration of diversity and inclusion with art displayed within St Luke's church.

Graceville Centre in Nambour is part of Lutheran Services and offers mental health and disability support, as well as onsite Supported Independent Living.

Local artist Deby Taylor began painting about six years ago following a stroke.

The stroke gave her the motivation to pick up a paintbrush.

"Through yoga and meditation I met a couple of different people who referred to me a group (of artists), many who had contact with Graceville," she said.

"I'd had a stroke and just decided that now was the time, stop putting it (painting) off."

She showed 11 paintings in the exhibition.

Another keen artist at the event was Graceville Centre client Jason Rosendahl.

Jason has been painting for many years and loves to work in bold colours, drawing inspiration from what he sees around him and from his imagination.

Two of Paula Bowie's large clay vessels on display at the Old Ambo.

Celebration of Clayworking at the Old Ambo

RUMINATE is the title chosen by Paula Bowie for her exhibition of clay vessels at Nambour's Old Ambulance Station. Paula has lived in Coolool for 12 years, but before that she lived "off the grid" on a gold mining lease in Far North Queensland.

She learned pottery in the 80s when she studied under Stephen Harrison in New South Wales.

Living up north in Palmer River country, she found herself inspired and fascinated by geological formations, and these play a large part in her art. There she found a love of using natural materials.

Paula makes clay vessels, and enjoys making large ones, using found ochres and oxides.

Most of the works on display in this exhibition have been made over the past twelve months while Paula was undergoing radiation and chemo therapies to treat cancer.

Paula estimates that during this time she would make a pot every day, and take another day to finish it. Many of her vessels are based on primitive ancient shapes, which she alters to reflect her own style. Her work has filled the gallery, and she loves the space of the Old Ambo.

► Ruminate is showing at the Old Ambulance Station, 80 Howard St Nambour, until July 9. Opening hours are from 10am until 3pm, Monday to Saturday.

Nambour Bloomhill Op Shop Volunteer Michael Mills and his wife and store manager Lyn look forward to welcoming customers during the Appeal.

Bloomhill aims to bounce back from Covid sales drop BLOOMHILL Cancer Care this month launched its Be There for Bloomhill Appeal, seeking community support to bounce back from big drop in op shop income due to the COVID pandemic.

Bloomhill is the biggest community-based cancer support organisation on the Coast.

Each year it supports around 1100 clients through its nursing care and provides over 800 allied health care and wellness appointments at the centre in Buderim.

"If there is one year to support Bloomhill it's this year," Chief Executive Officer Christopher John said.

"We are preparing to redevelop our wellness centre from five to 14 therapy rooms so we can help more people, but the post-COVID building crisis is creating significant challenges.

"The op shops which supply about 75 percent of the charity's income (in a normal, non-COVID year) have this year had sales dip so low Bloomhill was until recently eating into its savings to keep afloat.

Bloomhill is turning 25 years old this year and planning an expansion from five to 14 therapy rooms, including a new gym and redeveloping its café, to meet the growing demand for our care services.

When people donate, they are helping to support new clients touched by cancer who seek support at the centre every week. It costs an average $1454 for Bloomhill to provide nursing care support per client for one year. That's roughly $125 each month.

In the first 6-12 months after a cancer diagnosis most clients need to undergo extensive cancer treatments.

Some will need to have surgery, most will have some form of chemotherapy and many require follow-up radiotherapy, medication and rehabilitation activities. Our nurses are highly trained in oncology and are central in developing the right individualised care plans for our clients.

Many of our clients are facing financial hardship and often need immediate support in many different practical ways.

When you donate you are helping us provide practical support to clients, carers and children facing extreme financial hardship.

► Your donation is gratefully received and makes a huge difference to the support Bloomhill provides those touched by cancer. All donations over $2AUD are fully tax-deductible in Australia. To donate visit www.bloomhill.com.au

Director Simon Denver is delighted to have been asked to produce this work.

Kabaret to feature Coast's finest female talent

SUNCOAST Repertory Theatre is proud to announce its next production is Les Femmes de la Boite Noire (Women of the Black Box).

It is a multi-layered 12-woman Kabaret featuring some of the finest female talent ever assembled on the Sunshine Coast.

As time hurtles towards the first 25 years of the 21st Century it can seem as if life itself is in a state of flux.

This Kabaret explores this flux from a female perspective. Sound, vision, music and theatre collide in this bittersweet, poignant, sad and yet funny Kabaret.

It's raw and real and might just prick your conscience, it might just touch a nerve, it might tickle you and it might slap you - but what it will do is entertain you.

The cast and creatives are Rachel Fentiman, Jo Hendrie, Cardie Boydell, Mary Egglestone, Rebecca Stephenson, Angel Goulter, AJ Wildey, Ali Lamboli, Caitie Alice, Anna MacMahon, Ninnie Lines & Joy Marshall. With Simon Denver - Director, Paul Clement - Guitarist

This ensemble (for the statistically minded) has over 340 collective years' experience.

Director Simon Denver is delighted to have been asked to produce this work as part of the Old Ambulance Station's Takeover initiative.

Denver firmly believes that following on from works like The Curators "The Swan" and D.I.V.E theatres "Caprichos" it will really help brand the Black Box as the Coast's home for quality Independent Theatre.

The timeless music of Irving Berlin comes to Palmwoods

DURING July, Palmwoods Singers' Little Village Theatre will present three performances of An Evening with Irving, a song and dance show celebrating the music of Irving Berlin, the American composer who played a leading role in the evolution of popular songs from the 1920s and 30s ragtime and jazz eras through the golden age of musicals in the 1940s.

Over a long career that spanned six decades, (1907-1966) Irving Berlin wrote more than 1,200 ballads, dance numbers, novelty tunes and love songs, many of which became standards that are still favourites today. Berlin also wrote the scores for nineteen Broadway shows and eighteen motion pictures. His talents earned him the admiration of his peers and accolades from his audiences, as well as many awards honouring his contribution to music. Songs such as There's No Business Like Show Business, Blue Skies and White Christmas are among the most popular songs ever recorded.

Palmwoods Guide Hut, transformed into 'The Blue Room' 1920s glitzy nightclub, is the venue for An Evening with Irving. Performances will be held on three consecutive Saturdays with July 16 and July 23 performances beginning at 5pm, followed by a 3pm matinee on July 30. Patrons are encouraged to dress in the fashions of the era and enter the spirit of the high energy show.

► Tickets are $25 which includes the show, grazing platters, sweets, tea and coffee. Other drinks are BYO. For bookings call Moira on 0409 026 145. Booking is essential. Seating is limited and early booking is encouraged, with tables of four a convenient way to enjoy the occasion with friends. For further information email: ourlittlevillagetheatre@gmail.com.

Rosie (Rochelle Cameron) is not having much luck convincing Barry (Andrew Moon) to take some exercise.

Jonas and Barry in the Home: a very heart-warming play

LIND Lane Theatre in Nambour presents Jonas and Barry in the Home, a hilarious and heart-warming play about friendship and family.

Barry Butterfield has moved into the seniors community Gateway Gardens at the insistence of his daughter Rosie, who also works there as a Lifestyle Consultant. Rosie doesn't want him living alone in case he has a heart attack, like his father, brother, and uncle did before they were sixty-five.

Barry feels he can't fit in until he meets Jonas Ainsworth, an outgoing and oddly irrepressible character with a slightly mysterious past, who is determined to get to the heart of what ails Barry.

This "odd couple" themed play penned by famous Canadian Norm Foster premiered in Ontario in 2015 and the original production toured for several years. It has now become available for community theatres and Joy Hinckley is very pleased to be directing the Australian premiere at Nambour's Lind Lane Theatre.

► Jonas and Barry in the Home starts on Friday July 1st at the Lind, 16 Mitchell Street in the heart of Nambour. There will only be six shows, including two matinees, so we suggest that you book early to avoid disappointment. Go to www.lindlane.com.au/whats-on or phone 1300 732 764.

The Night Parrot

QUEENSLAND Music Festival's The Night Parrot tells the story of a species believed to be extinct for nearly a century.

Then, just recently, it was spotted nestled amongst the spinifex in regional Queensland.

The Sunshine Coast Chamber Music Festival and Maleny Arts Council are proud to present this magical production which combines glorious music, storytelling and visual art.

The Night Parrot plays at Maleny Community Centre Friday June 17 at 7pm.

AUSTRALIAN Red Cross Lifeblood has unveiled new research, which reveals misconceptions may be hindering blood donation.

The first 'State of Donation' survey, released on World Blood Donor Day, found Australians underestimate how much donated blood is needed by patients each year, while vastly overestimating how many roll up their sleeves.

"Three quarters of respondents don't know

Misconceptions hindering blood donations that 1 in 3 people will need donated blood in their lifetime," Lifeblood Executive Director, Donor Services, Cath Stone said.

"At the same time, more than 4 out of 5 Australians are unaware only 3% of the population - around half a million people - donates blood.

"More than half of respondents thought there were at least three times as many blood donors than there are."

It's a misconception that Lifeblood is trying to change, as it calls for 140,000 more donors.

"There are now more than three million extra people living in Australia than there were ten years ago, but the number of people who donate hasn't changed," she said. "Our existing blood donors can't do it alone. Escalating cold and flu cases, COVID, busy lifestyles and all sorts of other reasons mean cancellations remain high."

7000 donations are needed this National Blood Donor Week. Book a donation at www.lifeblood.com.au, via the free DonateBlood App or by calling 13 14 95.

New plans take shape for Nambour CBD

Q&A Interview with Sunshine Coast Division 10 Councillor David Law

SUNSHINE Coast Council last month announced two major initiatives to help shape Nambour's future. The Gazette asked Div 10 Cr David Law to expand on the projects and what they will mean for the town.

• What is the Nambour Centre Activation Project (NCAP)?

This is the project for the Council buildings (assets) in Nambour and accommodating the 200-plus staff that will be staying in Nambour. The Eddie de Vere Building; The Fred Murray building; the Library and the forecourt space. Including the parking around this precinct. This project will see the renovation and repurposing of the precinct for the future requirements of council staff and the library including the customer contact centre.

Activation is the driving force of the NCAP and aims to stimulate and attract public and private investment into Nambour, as well as helping to make Nambour a great place to live, work and play.

• What is the Naamba Place Revitalisation Project (NPRP)?

This is the project related to the Nambour CBD area and will focus on walkability throughout Nambour to enable people to get around town on foot which will contribute to the activation. It draws on the many master plans completed over the past 10-15 years or more and the community consultation that contributed to these master plans. There has been an initial "Think Tank" with stakeholders and over the coming 12 months or so there will be a lot more consultation to particularly engage with the recently arrived residents and young families. This will result in placemaking improvements in the CBD area.

Both projects are intended to support the activation of Nambour in collaboration with the community.

With this context in mind I hope that we can provide clarity and purpose for everyone who is interested in Nambour and the future prosperity for all elements of the economy and community.

Cr Law: The NCAP and aims to stimulate and attract public and private investment into Nambour.

• When do you think the NCAP be completed? When will we see a plan?

A couple of months ago the contract was signed with architects for the feasibility study and concept design. This may take up to 12 months to complete and will include community input. The indicative timeline for the whole project to completion is likely to be up to 4 or 5 years. We would expect to see the concept designs within 10 to 12 months.

• Can you give us an idea of the sorts of things that might be in the plan?

The core elements of the project are to provide the office accommodation space required for the council staff who will be based in Nambour once the new city hall opens by the end of this year.

There will be approximately 200 staff remaining in Nambour after the move.

The library is likely to be moved into the Eddie de Vere building and become a modern contemporary district level library with space and facilities to suit a library for the 2030s and beyond.

The customer contact centre will remain an important element of council services for residents of Nambour and Hinterland region.

This will also be renewed and made suitable to current and future community service requirements.

Recent surveys have shown a lack of community meeting spaces/venues so this may be one of the additional uses that will be made available in the precinct.

The current feasibility study that is underway will help to understand the needs of the council and the community and provide concept designs.

• You're passionate about Nambour. How important is NCAP for you on a personal level?

I am very passionate about Nambour and one of the main reasons I nominated for election as the Councillor in 2020 for Nambour and Division 10 was to achieve the best possible outcomes for the future of Nambour. Like many people at that time I believed that the Council was leaving Nambour completely when the new council city hall was completed. So the past two years I have been working hard to establish the reality of the situation and to keep the maximum presence of council in Nambour to service the whole Hinterland region. This has included ensuring that at least 50% of staff continue to work in Nambour and that the library and customer contact centre remains to provide these essential services for our Nambour and Hinterland Community. And of course this means ensuring that the funding for this is in the council budget for the coming year and into the future forecast year budgets.

And right now the NCAP has created the opportunity for the Nambour Forecourt Live Events and there are more planned for this year as well as other activation projects. When there is some certainty about these new projects I will share them with you.

• When will people be able to have input into the Project?

We will be seeking community input for this project and at the moment I am not able to give detail on the timing.

• A common comment on social media was that this type of thing has been announced before. How will NCAP be different from other initiatives that maybe have not lived up to expectations?

In my election campaign I made two promises I knew I could keep; 1 to be honest and 2 to work hard. I have complete control over these promises and throughout my professional career it is the only way I know how to do business. Of course the people will make their own view.

That said I appreciate the doubt people may have following such an announcement and in conjunction with the NPRP. However with all the information I have available today these are the projects that are underway and will be completed. If something should occur to change or impact progress then I will let everyone know the reasons and the what the changes are.

The indicators I have to date show that this project is under way and is funded, key elements of any council project. I know there is funding in this budget 21/22 and the architects are contracted - there is funding in next year's budget to continue the design, planning and activation - the project has funding in the future budget forecasts.

‘What I’ve done, I’ve done for my love of people’: volunteer

NINETY one year old RangeCare client Muriel Peters, has recently been recognised for her tireless contribution as a volunteer with an award in the category, Seniors & Aged Care Services Volunteer at the Volunteering Sunshine Coast 2022 Awards.

Born in Gympie in 1930, Muriel moved to Nambour at age 15 with her widowed father and two siblings.

“I lost my mum when I was four and a half,” Muriel said.

“My youngest sister was three and my brother was eight. It wasn’t until I had grown up that I realised how hard this would have been for my dad.

“In my own life, I feel I have been very blessed,” said Muriel.

“My late husband served in the army in New Guinea during the war and we were married in 1950 on his return, just before my 21st birthday. We have four children, eleven grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren”.

Muriel’s work as a volunteer started at a very early age, as her Uncle was the first Chairman of Sundale.

“I initially got involved with street stalls and fetes and that kind of thing,” she said. “I’ve volunteered with Sundale in lots of ways more or less since it was established”.

In the years that followed, Muriel volunteered in the Chapel, calling numbers at Bingo and in The Bible study group.

“I just like being there and helping people where I can,” Muriel said. “Recognition isn’t something that I look for, never have done. I do things because I love doing them. I had no idea I had been nominated for the award.

What goes around comes around: RangeCare provides a package of home help and transport services to Muriel who happens to be one of their longest standing volunteers and recently won an award as such.

“As a volunteer, you don’t think of what will be acknowledged or singled out.

“It was a huge surprise because what I’ve done, I’ve done for the love of doing it and my love of people. I love serving people, you know, helping them,” she said.

RangeCare currently provides a package of home help and transport services to Muriel, from gardening and cleaning to transport to health providers.

“The people are just so caring and have offered me a package that suits me perfectly,” Muriel said. “I am always recommending RangeCare to people!”.

And when it comes to advice for others who are considering volunteering?

“Well, I think it’s very important to follow your heart’s desire and help people. The more you give, the more you receive. If you give help and love and it comes from the heart, you receive far more back because people just love being helped”.

Jim Cox’s The Queen’s Own Quolls.

Wildlife Exhibition by renowned Montville artist

DESPITE being in his 80s well-known Montville artist Jim Cox continues to make wonderful art.

Jim has two life-long passions – making art is one; the other is discovering Australian wildlife.

This second passion has been a mainstay of his art and underpins so much of who Jim is as a man and as an artist.

Jim’s latest and most ambitious project, SOS: Save Our Species, is an exhibition of 24 mixed media illustrations.

His deep yearning is to educate and delight his audience in equal measure and I think there is no doubt that he will achieve this with these wonderful paintings.

The work imagines some of our beautiful animals taking up arms against us in an attempt to fight back for their very survival. The work is humorous, challenging, appealing, and expertly done and limited editions will be avail-

25,000 flock to Nambour Showgrounds

MORE than 25,000 people flocked to the Nambour Showgrounds over the weekend to enjoy the 2022 Sunshine Coast Agricultural Show.

"We had brilliant numbers, not far off last year's, and better than many previous years," said Sunshine Coast Agricultural Show Society Manager Penny Walsh. "We're still waiting on final figures."

In fact she said online demand for tickets was so heavy that the website was overloaded at times.

Organisers were pleased by the response to new attractions.

"The Sunshine & Sons Saloon was an absolute hit," said Penny. "People loved being able to sit on the terraces and watch all the live action on the big screen."

"The weather was superb and the green was used to maximum capacity again. People were able to sit down as a family and watch the night-time entertainment.

We're known as the friendly Show and it was wonderful to see so many families out enjoying themselves."

And there was no shortage of things to see.

"There were a record number of entries for our competitions with just over 500 entries," Penny said.

"Clive Featherby and KC's Fireworks out did themselves this year.

"A security guard told me he'd been to a lot of shows and this one was the best entertainment he'd seen. It was just a spectacular."

This year's event was well and truly powered by volunteers.

"There were over 1000 volunteers involved in this Show," Penny said. "We called in so many different local groups to help us out and they answered the call!

"The team from The Shack, for instance, were incredible.

They absolutely loved coming over to help set up and dismantle. It showed great community spirit.

"We're all about community groups and tapping into the spirit that is so strong in Nambour."

Will Habras and Reo Towns spent Saturday morning raising money for the Yandina Scouts.

Great hat! ... Lainey and Felicity Brinkworth.

Jeremy, Audrey and Kerrie Harth.

Jules Spencer, Nick Dolley, Mirandah Boyd, Dan Maloney and baby Iris Boyd-Maloney.

Kauri Palmer, Josh White and Taimana Palmer.

Callum Pettigrew, Abbey Wolski and Susie Robson.

Ninni Phillips and Elizabeth Hunter enjoy their potato slinkys.

Lylah Vines and her Unicorn.

Darcy McCallum with Lilo from Maleny Botanical Gardens and Birdworld.

Our first Show was held in 1900

THE Sunshine Coast Show had its beginnings in Woombye when the Maroochy Pastoral Agricultural Horticultural and Industrial Society was established in 1900 at a meeting held in the Woombye School of Arts building.

For the first Show, held on August 2 1900, a small area was levelled and fenced to create a show ring and round timber blocks were used for seating from Thomas Bartholomew Sawing and Planning Mill. About 1,500 people attended the event to enjoy displays of cooking, needlework, floral art and schoolwork. The sideshow alley consisted of three amusements including a merry-go-round.

On August 3 1900 the Brisbane Courier reported "In the history of Woombye, yesterday was a red-letter day and one which will be remembered by the residents who rolled up in goodly numbers to witness the opening."

As time went on, the show continued to be a hit with the community.

The fifth annual exhibition of the Maroochy Pastoral, Agricultural, Horticultural, and Industrial Association was declared a success.

The quality of exhibits had improved on that of previous years. Mr A H Benson, the Government Fruit Expert, commended the fruit display, stating it was the best he had seen in Australia.

About 2,000 people attended the sixth annual show, the first to run over two days.

Exhibitors included Mr Smilenski from Dulong, who exhibited 21 varieties of sugar cane, Mr Charles Rose who displayed a fine conical-shaped trophy of pineapples and Mr J T Lowe, the Nambour and Woombye butcher, who exhibited a display of hams, bacon, lard and other smoked meats.

During the 1920s, many school pig clubs exhibited as pig exhibits were very popular.

In 1926, Mapleton Pig Club received 16 entries from members to exhibit pigs at the Nambour Show. It was reported that it was the best showing of pigs outside Brisbane.

Pigs were judged on their age, size, shape, stance and overall appearance.

The success of school pig clubs was due to the efforts of Mr Shelton from the Department of Agriculture, his sincere efforts, personal tact and courtesy were noted.

The 1930s saw years of financial hardship which impacted on the show. However, there were changing types of exhibits.

Mr H Neville's exhibit of attractive and distinctive Morris cars was very popular.

The Morris Minor series was described as being a wonder car with amazing performance since their introduction into the Australian market.

The Morris Isis Six model was described by one motoring editor as "a car that is far better propaganda for British trade than books of statistics and the massed verbiage of orators."

Entertainment took on an international flavour with the Magnificent Tattooed Venus, who was tattooed from neck to toe in all the colours of the rainbow. The Magnificent Tattooed Venus was also the winner of the World's Championship at the International Beauty competition.

In 1936, the Cossack Skaters performed feats of skill and daring on speed skates upon an elevated platform.

One of the most daring acts was when Demetri whirled his two partners together in mid-air whilst revolving at breakneck speed.

The 1940s saw a name change implemented by the committee as they became the Great North Coast Pastoral Agricultural, Horticultural and Industrial Society.

Shows were not held during the latter part of World War II (WWII), 1942-1946. During this time, the showground was occupied by the Fourth Field Ambulance of the Australian Army.

The first show after WWII was held in 1947 and was a great success, creating many records.

The financial success of this show allowed the committee to embark on a programme of improvements. They allocated 100 pounds to employ a permanent caretaker for the grounds.

In 1953, the official switching-on ceremony of floodlights at the Nambour show ring took place. Construction work was carried out by the Southern Electrical Authority and Swan's Garage's electrical staff carried out the installation.

In 1951, the show society joined with the community to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the inauguration of local government in Maroochy Shire.

As a tribute to and in recognition of the parts played in developing the district, Mr Matthew Carroll, one of the community's oldest residents, officially opened the show.

Five hundred people attended the Jubilee Show Ball which was a night of great merriment.

In 1955, a search was held throughout Queensland for the 1955 Queen and Miss Golden Pineapple, as part of Golden Pineapple Week initiated by the show society.

In the 1960s, the Chairman of Trustees, J D Grimes agreed to hand over the showgrounds and assets to Maroochy Shire Council under certain conditions.

The society changed its name to the Sunshine Coast Show to reflect the renaming of the region to the Sunshine Coast.

In 1962, the evening entertainment was provided by Canadian Hell Drivers presented as part of a Queensland tour.

The evening show was attended by approximately 2000 people and comprised of action-packed sequences, including crash cars and high speed ramp jumps.

Vehicles featured were the 1962 EK Holden range of sedans and utilities provided by Nambour Holden dealers Williams Motor Company Pty Ltd.

Over the years, there have been many successful competitors - Fred Ivins, in 1918 won first prize for a copybook and later for his champion cattle.

Anne Richardson had a shoebox full of winning certificates for her ferns, cooking and jams and won the Busing Cup, a perpetual trophy for the most prizes won in a show.

Martha Bade, Alma Low, Trixie Duhs and Maureen Doneman over many years have taken numerous first places at the Sunshine Coast Show's cookery, sweets and preserves section.

Alma's tip for making a winning sponge was to use one day old eggs that have never been refrigerated, make sure the flour is fresh and sifted three times, develop a good eye for equal quantities in each cake pan and finally, know your own oven even if it is a wood stove with no thermostat.

Over the long history of the Sunshine Coast Show, many people have worked extremely hard and diligently to make the show what it is today.

7 value-add ideas for your home

by Matt Wall
BOQ Nambour
& Hinterland
Owner-Manager

WHEN it comes to adding value to your home through renovations, it's not always the largest, most time and money intensive changes that make the biggest difference. In fact, often small or even cosmetic changes can have a huge impact.

Prioritise the Home Office

Having a dedicated office space is now a part of our modern lifestyle, and that means it's a huge value-add for buyers. Putting together your home office can be as simple as converting the spare room, as DIY-friendly as adding a modern shed in the back garden (a fantastic option) or as significant as adding a full addition to your home.

Do Up the Kitchen

Renovating your kitchen can be a surprisingly costly endeavour. But it doesn't take much to give it a little lift that can have a lot of impact. Consider replacing the hardware on all the cabinetry, updating the cabinet doors themselves for a modern fresh look, or even installing a new tiled splashback. Cosmetic changes like this can really add a lot of impact, without large investments of money and time.

Splash On the Paint

One of the easiest and most effective ways to add value to your home is through a fresh coat of paint. Updating the look of the exterior of the home or the interior spaces, give it a fresh, modern look that just feels good to be in and can reduce the appearance of general wear and tear that can occur in a household over time.

Freshen Up Your Outdoor Space

Creating a garden oasis (or party spot!) doesn't take much and can really add to the desirability of your home. Consider clearing an area for a fire pit, add some Adirondack chairs and string up some globe lights through the trees. If you have a little bit of cash to spend, consider installing an outdoor kitchen on the verandah or patio for a more sophisticated, upmarket vibe.

Vege Out

More Australians than ever are getting into the dirt and growing their own veggies. In fact, research shows that Australians are now growing more than 30% of their own food by income. When it comes to adding value to your home, it's not just a quaint, homey ideal anymore - but something that savvy, future looking Aussies are seeing as a non-negotiable. Popping in a raised garden is really cost effective, as well as a lot of fun too.

Focus On Flooring

Flooring can be a huge feature in your home, and if it's looking tired or worn it can really let the entire look of the home down. If you already have timber floors consider updating them with a professional polish. And if you don't have timber floors, you can also consider updating your look with laminate floating floors which both are easy care and budget friendly.

Beautify Your Bathroom

A modern, luxurious bathroom is still a major drawcard for potential buyers and can uplift the value of your home significantly. While a full renovation will certainly give you a good return on your investment, a few small changes can also make a vital difference. You might consider upgrading the vanity, replacing (or even painting) the tiles and even adding in luxury elements like a rain shower or a beautiful, edged mirror.

Men's Rescue Centres would get to the root of DV

"What is your problem?" asked in a confident, supportive, calm and caring manner, is a truly powerful question begging for an answer that can resolve any misunderstanding and avoid escalation into violence.

When bullying occurs, the perpetrator has a problem. That feeling of hurt or discontent of any kind could be coming from current issues or from their deep past experiences.

I was a victim of psychological abuse as a child and came to realise my dad was suffering from PTSD and other problems. I am offering to governments and support agencies a possible way to reduce domestic and family violence. Because current methods are not working very well.

For the sake of vulnerable children who go on to suffer, and make their loved-ones suffer due to their childhood experiences, I believe my initiative would get to the real root of the problem and greatly reduce it.

I suggest the establishment of "Men's Rescue Centres" where, at the first signs of this family dysfunction crime, the woman can confidently report the treatment that she knows she does not deserve and the perpetrator can get help.

He would be calmed down and asked questions in a safe, supportive environment, in a caring, non-judgemental manner.

He will get to the real root of the matter and be guided to become reunited with his family.

Additionally, this could save the taxpayer many millions of dollars.

For anyone to read, details of this policy are explained in a blog on my website: www.balancewithcolour.com

I urge at this special time of new policy generation, that the Sunshine Coast Council and others establish a trial, a "lighthouse project", along these lines. If a "Men's Rescue Centre" can be shown to greatly reduce family and domestic violence (and bullying generally) Nambour could be celebrated worldwide.

Please consider this policy and take what action you can. It is "prevention" rather than an attempt to "cure"

What's the rush?

Thank you for your article about the land swap in Maleny. Perhaps readers outside Maleny thought that this land was "on the outskirts" of the town or even "remote".

It's actually only a couple of hundred metres from the Main Street — in the precious community-owned "precinct" behind the Obi Obi Creek.

This decision was sprung on us, so many Maleny residents rushed to ring and email Councillors asking to delay the decision to allow for community consultation.

Only Cr Law and Natoli heeded our call. Why not other Councillors?

Why not delay the decision? Why not consult community? People are demanding more transparency and genuine community consultation from government.

— Andrew McLean, Maleny Greens

Nature Watch

The White Crab Spider

The Thomisus Spectabilis is often referred to as the White Crab Spider, or Flower Spider. There are about 2000 examples of this species. They are quite small with a female about 10mm in length and the male about 6mm in length. They are ambush predators so do not spin a web. They are venomous and quite aggressive. Their bite can cause localised pain but is not lethal. Generally speaking their biting apparatus cannot puncture your skin but wearing gloves while gardening is prudent. These spiders are often found on white and yellow flowers so this one is unusual having been caught on a red flower which would make it vulnerable to a foraging bird. I have photographed many examples of the Crab spider species over the years. — Don McGlusky, Diddillibah

Moments in Time:

In 1962 District Commissioner Kirkpatrick presented Queen's Scout Badges to Scouts from the 1st and 2nd Nambour Scout Troops.

Nambour boasts proud scouting tradition

ONLY one year after Lieutenant General Baden Powell began the Scouting Movement in England in 1908, the small town of Nambour had its own first Nambour Scout Troop headed by ex-Melbourne dentist Mr E. Wainwright. Since that time, thousands of boys have been enriched by the Scouting traditions passed on by committed leaders. A scouting highlight is the awarding of the Queen's Scout Badge.

On 27 April 1962, John Young, Garnet Swallow, Robert Young, Richard Groves, and Gordon Rick were presented with their Queen's Scout badges by District Commissioner Kirkpatrick watched by Senior Scout Leader, Roger Fewster.

The boys were later presented with their Queen's Scout Certificates by Chief Scout of Queensland, Sir Henry Abel Smith at a ceremony at Government House, Brisbane.

Richard Groves has presented a folder containing Scouting photos, memories etc of the 1960s to the Nambour Museum. It can be viewed in the Museum's Scout room together with other Scouting memorabilia on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 1-4pm, Saturdays 10am-3pm and groups at other times by arrangement.

Roll up your sleeves

With most Australians still unaware blood donations are largely used to support cancer patients, the Leukaemia Foundation is marking this National Blood Donor Week (13-19 June) and today's World Blood Donor Day (14 June) by calling on the national community to roll up their sleeves and donate.

New research from LifeBlood has revealed that despite three quarters (76 per cent) of Australians knowing someone with cancer, close to the same number of people (77 per cent) are also unaware that cancer treatment uses a third of all donated blood products.
